DRY LAW SOLUTIONS

For $25,000 a man should do a good deal of thinking. But when Durant and Hearst offer that sum for a solution to the dry law muddle it is doubtful that they are rewarding thought as much as inspiration. Mr. Hearst states in his announcement of the forthcoming award that he cares nothing for literary excellence so long as he gets an idea. He is a man so rich that he can afford to pay people to think for him and he certainly buys more brains than any other newspaper or magazine publisher.

The Durant offer ought to stimulate the writing of essays for the Hearst prize. Durant's purchase was an insane thing related in no way to the truth of the situation, but Hearst's will probably be a jimdandy, one that considers the facts which underlie the prohibition situation. It will recognize that there is law-breaking of very varied forms, from the smuggling of liquor over the borders down through the diversion of legitimate alcohol and the "cleaning" of denatured products, to the plain and ubiquitous moonshining. Bootlegging is co-extensive with the American realm. It varies from locality to locality just as primitive cultures used to do. In parts of the southwest they make baskets and in other parts pottery, depending on the supply of materials close at hand.

SOME ARE BUILT THAT WAY

Captain Fried seems fated to drag people out of the Atlantic ocean into which they have fallen because the unconquerable elements have grown tired of human arrogance.

There are people like Captain Fried all over the world, only they don't all engage in an occupation that gives them opportunities for sea rescues. However they are always picking up after other people, "sitting in" on their jobs while they are drunk or disabled, smoothing over the path of life for multifarious less people or earnest souls, saving the situations whether they be diplomatic or domestic. They are personified broad shoulders upon which burdens are always being shifted or weeping is being done. They receive sorrowful confidences and keep them and step through their allotted spans without much self glorification and no feeling whatever that they are different from ordinary types of humankind.

They go pretty nearly unnoticed, until one of their representatives happens to do something interesting to reporters. Then the news wires buzz with the story, welcoming committees are organized, medals are struck and the world tries in its blundering way to tell how much it appreciates service and courage.

WORM REALLY TURNS

Miss Fontaine has not revealed to J's column her estimate of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, but it is probably one of mixed admiration and scorn. She has been trying for several years to share the money which inspires the first sentiment mentioned in the foregoing sentence and that fact that he has not extirpated her with a large heavy club probably provokes the latter.

Mr. Whitney says he is tired of being kept in suspense by process servers in the employ of Miss Fontaine, who can think up more ways—through her changing staffs of lawyers—to file suits against Cornelius that the rich scion can circumvent all by himself. He tries filing a suit or two himself. One is an out of the ordinary suit intended to enjoin the lady from filing any more suits.

After the pacifists succeed in junking the American navy they might try their hand on scattering the Salvation Army. We are sure one branch of the internationalists would be glad to do it, the communist branch for instance.

Agricultural experiments have succeeded in the past year in creating what they call a radish-cabbage. Looks to us like they have had a futile year.

SUICIDE ENDS CAREER OF KIDNAPPER

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 18. (U.P.)—The career of Pat Crowe, kidnapper of Edward G. Cudahy, ended today in suicide.

The man who from 1890 to 1906 robbed banks stole diamonds, was said to have murdered without a twinge of hesitation, and who was for years the most hunted man in the country, shot himself to death.

Out of the $25,000 he collected from the Cudahy family as ransom for the boy he kidnapped, the thousands he took in ransoms, the profits of his train robberies, and all the other money which came into his possession in those wild years, he had just $2.69 left. The police found that much in his pocket.

For several years he had been poverty stricken. Three years ago he was arrested in New York for begging. Police had found this man who three decades ago had demanded his money at the point of a gun, begging, hat in hand, on an elevated platform. He was sent to jail and on release returned to Buffalo where he had made his home most of the time for the last five years.

Crowe's body was found this afternoon in an alley back of the customs house here. He had sought to pass into oblivion unnoticed and to that end had chosen a hidden spot for his death. He had removed from his clothing an from his pockets every mark of identification. It was not until Captain William Hildebrand of the Buffalo police had viewed the body at the morgue that it was identified.

CABINET POSTS PROVE WORRY TO HOOVER

ABOARD PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER'S SPECIAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (U.P.)—President-elect Herbert Hoover is returning to the capital two weeks before his inauguration with his purpose obscured, in the secrecy with which he has surrounded all plans for his administration.

It is the cabinet problem principally, it is understood, that turned him northward today from Florida. The special Atlantic coast train, which the president-elect and Mrs. Hoover boarded this morning at Miami, was speeding through Georgia and South Carolina tonight on the run which will end tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 in Washington.

In the seclusion and privacy of his own home in Washington, the president-elect will begin soon after his arrival a series of important conferences. Regular republican organization leaders, it is understood, have become worried that Vice president-elect has passed almost entirely beyond their ranks in choosing his official family. They desire rewards for the organization in one or two cabinet posts.

Conferences Planned. There have but Hoover know of their desire to talk over the cabinet situation with him and the president-elect preferred to have three conferences in Washington.

Hoover virtually has completed his cabinet slate. He returned to Washington with his mind about made up, and with the more important cabinet posts already signed and sealed. But he is willing to have party organization leaders place their case before him.

Engagements already have been arranged with congressional leaders with whom Hoover will discuss legislative matters. He wants to complete his program for the extra session which will take up farm relief and tariff revision. Likewise, the president-elect is interested in two matters now giving considerable trouble in congress, the first over repeal of the national origins provision of the last immigration act and the controversy over the additional $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement.

Opposes Dry Funds. He favors the repeal of the national origins provision which has been voted by the house, but which faces a filibuster in the senate led by Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania. Unless the congress acts, Hoover as president will be required to proclaim the act in effect on July 1. Hoover is opposed to the additional $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement being voted at this time, desiring a free hand with his prohibition program when he enters the White House.

Hoover was given a cheer as the train pulled away from Miami this morning.

Other crowds wished him God-speed and good luck at Fort Pierce, West Palm Beach, New Smyrna and Jacksonville.

High Flying Miss

MARVEL CROSSON, diminutive San Diego aviatrix, is congratulated by C. F. Lienesch, head of the aviation department of the Union Oil Company, on her flight of 20,000 feet or more at Clover Field, Santa Monica, in which she attempted to set a new altitude record for women.

DARING GIRL TRIES FOR AIR MARK IN UNION OIL PLANE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—Whether Miss Marvel Crosson, 25-year-old San Diego aviatrix, is to be crowned the new altitude queen of the aviation world will not be known until the sealed barograph carried in the front cockpit of her plane on her altitude flight from Clover Field, Santa Monica, has been officially calibrated in Washington, D. C. But that she possesses pluck and grit worthy of a new title holder was demonstrated during the two hours and a half she spent in the air.

Almost four miles up, out of sight of land and alone in a plane with the motor threatening to fail her completely, Miss Crosson started a 20-minute battle to get the kinks out of the motor and continue on to a higher level. Her hands were numb from temperature which ranged from 10 to 20 degrees below zero on her upward climb and despite this she fought her way up to a point where the altitude of her plane registered slightly better than 20,000 feet when the temperature of the motor dropped to 50 degrees and the oil pressure began to fail.

Altitude Lost. Almost instantly her ship began to lose altitude. She kicked her rudder and tipped the nose of the plane downward and dove to 19,000 feet, hoping to eliminate the trouble and then pulled the ship up to reach her former altitude.

she nosed the plane down again and dove to 18,000 before pulling it up for another running climb. Though she went higher on the third try than she had on the second, she did not succeed in reaching the height she had attained before she encountered motor trouble.

Realizing the futility of prolonging the fight under the handicap she faced, Miss Crosson commenced a gradual descent to the flying field. She took almost an hour to come down.

May Try Again. She said on landing that if the calibration of the barograph shows that she failed to set a new altitude record for women, she will try again in the near future under more auspicious conditions.

"That is only my first attempt to set a record," she declared, after she had thawed out her hands a bit, "but it served to show me that with my plane functioning properly, I can take it up several thousand feet higher than I did. I was not bothered by the altitude other than the extreme cold and the next time I will go prepared with heavier gloves."

At that, Miss Crosson wore considerably more than the high school flapper considers essential for winter weather. In addition to wadded "longies" and six sweaters, she wore a fur-lined leather flying suit and fur-lined moccasins and a fur-lined helmet over her regular flying helmet. She carried oxygen equipment and a mask. A parachute added to her bulk and discomfort, but was carried for safety.

Sister of Ace. Miss Crosson is a sister of Joe Crosson, one of the two crack pilots with Capt. Sir George Wilkins Antarctic expedition. She

GANGLAND PAYS TRIBUTE TO 6 VICTIMS

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—As gangland and relatives paid final respects to six of the seven victims of the beer war massacre, police extended their search for the slayers to other cities today.

The first and only specific police order naming a suspect, in the St. Valentine's day slayings in a north Clark street garage last Thursday, was issued today for the arrest of Dave "Doc" Bates, reputed to have a long criminal record as a "killer."

Detective Captain Shoemaker issued the order and said "Doc" was reported to be connected with hijacking exploits and in some instances had employed the disguise of a policeman, which links perfectly with the circumstantial evidence gathered by investigators.

Reprisal Slaying
The seven members of "Blue" Moran's beer running gang were killed in reprisal for the hijacking of liquor trucks running between Detroit and Chicago, police are convinced. Witnesses reported that two of the slayers, who were seen leaving the garage after the shooting, wore police uniforms.

In checking the information obtained in four days of concentrated investigation, rough hounds of gangsters here, Shoemaker issued the arrest order for Bates and other Cleveland authorities for the latest picture of the suspect and members of his "mob."

At the same time, three police taken by experts in a northside rooming house opposite the garage where the massacre took place, were sent to Detroit to be compared with those of the Purple Gang believed to have been hired by Canadian interests to fight Moran for control of the Chicago liquor trade.

4 Suspects Held
Chicago authorities anxiously awaited the arrival of finger prints and pictures of four men who were arrested on suspicion at Akron, O., today. According to word received here the men held at Akron were fashionably dressed and well supplied with money.

Letters and cards addressed to the men in Chicago were found in their pockets. The quartet denied they had been in Chicago or had any connection with the garage murders.

Two men who had pointed a machine gun from a blue sedan at Traffic Policeman Peter Hanson, were sought tonight. Hanson said he drew his pistol and fired at the occupants and believed he wounded one of them.

HARRY SINCLAIR IN SENTENCE APPEAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(U.P.) Harry Sinclair's attorney told the supreme court today in arguing his appeal from a three month jail sentence, that the oil magnate was being "guessed into jail" through the assumption that the senate Teapot dome committee had a legislative intention in putting questions to him.

Sinclair refused to answer the questions, which concerned alleged gifts to the republican national committee and gifts in connection with placing mining claims on Teapot dome, and as a result was sentenced to three months in jail for contempt of the senate.

Martin W. Littleton, the oil man's lawyer, based his argument before the high court today on contentions that his client was not properly summoned previous to his dramatic appearance before the committee in March, 1924, and that the committee's intent in putting the questions was actually judicial, not legislative.

Lawyer Questioned

"If you want to keep slender (and who doesn't in these days) avoid sweets and smoke Lucky Strikes. There seems to be something about them; possibly the flavor, that satisfies the craving for the rich things that add weight.

"Voila, reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet—the trim figure is always fashionable. Advertisements that I saw when I recently arrived in America, said: 'The best way for sugar to be eaten is as a flavor of foods'. They are quite correct in cautioning a modified use of sugar. Sweets to excess are bad. I advocate a few puffs of the Lucky Strike toasted flavor when sweets tempt.

"I may add that I smoke Lucky Strikes myself, and I think they have contributed much to the state of mind which has helped me to create my greatest successes.

"Lucky Strikes are certainly an inspiration!"

PAUL POIRET

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

EL CERRITO HAS RENAMED STREETS

The street ordinance renaming most of the streets in El Cerrito which did away with duplication of names and changing the names of streets which continued into Richmond, to correspond with those of Richmond passed its final reading and was adopted by the El Cerrito city council Monday night.

Application of J. E. Boutard, San Pablo avenue between Hill street and Calhoun boulevard, for a soft drink permit was granted.

A bill for the replacing of a 1000 feet of fence destroyed during the paving of the streets in the Berkeley Country Club Terrace tract presented by A. Shevlin was referred to City Engineer Ross L. Calfee to take up with the construction company.

A petition to have Albernardo street between Lincoln and Eureka avenues paved to its full width was laid over for one week in order to interview more of the property owners and find out what type of pavement would be most practical.

Request of Ethel Lake that the assessment on her lot in the Berkeley Country Club Terrace tract was too high was laid over until the new assessment rules are made.

The council voted to give the Volunteer Fire Department the $25 per month allowance which was discontinued during the depleted condition of the general fund.

Another sign was ordered posted for the third traffic officer on the request of Police Chief R. R. Cheek.

Richmond Gas Station Owner Defies 'Brigade'

broke the glass container of one and smashed the rear on the other.

Nothing was molested in the office of the station but a note had been pushed under the door. The note read:

"Why cheat on your fellow businessmen and public?"
"Play the game square."
"Full measure and full price."
"Brick Brigade No. 2"

In the yard of the service station were half a dozen bricks which were wrecking the station had evidently dropped after wrecking the station.

This is the second station which has been wrecked since the outbreak of the gasoline war. A similar attack occurred at a Berkeley station two weeks ago.

Authorities also revealed that a threat note had been sent to J. Andrews, operator of a gasoline station at Blake street and San Pablo avenue. El Cerrito, Andrews received a warning that his station would be wrecked about two weeks ago, although the station was not damaged. This note read:

"Beware second division of the brick brigade—down."
According to Borel the attack must have occurred some time between 2 and 2:30 a. m. by someone familiar with the actions of the night watchman, E. L. Smith. Smith stated that he left the station about two o'clock and that when he returned about half an hour later the place had been wrecked.

Police Investigate
Borel said that he closed the station at about 8 p. m. Saturday night and had returned from a show about midnight to do some checking up on his books. He was summoned to the station by Smith and called Richmond police who made a thorough investigation but were unable to find any clue that might lead to the capture of the culprits.

A. M. Young, president, and O. H. Dalwick of the Retail Gas Dealer's association of the East Bay visited the station early Sunday morning and made an investigation. Young said that the association would make a thorough investigation of the case as he felt that the incident casts a reflection on the association, especially in view of the fact that Borel had recently been asked to join the association and had refused.

Borel stated yesterday that he had no intention of joining any association and would continue to sell gasoline at any price he saw fit. It is understood that he has taken measures to prevent further attacks at the station.

Al Paulsen Leases Office

A. L. Paulsen, of the Paulsen Realty Service, 825 Macdonald avenue, announced the lease of a portion of his office space to Glen Purviance, Richmond man who will establish a candy counter. The candy stand will be on the west side of the store next to the California theater.

$2000 REWARD FOR RETURN OF CHILD

job would be returned safe while the first one had claimed "you'll never find her."

Another unexpected development was a statement to police that the girl had been with a woman Friday night after she was supposed to have been abducted.

Reward Offered
Rewards of $2000 were offered during the day when a hunt of more than 50 hours in which nearly all residents of the city had joined had completely failed to reveal even the slightest trace of Doris.

A personal appeal "in behalf of all children, mothers and fathers" to increase their vigilance in assisting police to solve the mystery was issued by William J. Quinn, chief of police.
"Some one in San Francisco must have information relative to this girl," he said.

Seen With Woman
Miss Clara Bridges, bank employee who claimed she knew the girl, told detectives she had seen the child three hours after her disappearance from a local playground late Friday and she was with an aged, poorly dressed woman, Mrs. Murphy said she did not know Miss Bridges.

In direct opposition to this was the testimony of Sam Baker, a butcher, who said he saw a fashionably dressed woman entering an automobile near the playground and she was kicking and screaming. The woman was calling to a "tall lean man" resembling descriptions of the "man in black" with a black mustache who has been sought as the actual kidnaper.

Suspect Held
A suspect who has been held to bail since Saturday, Joan A. Williams, night watchman of a United States mint here, was identified for the second time as a person who has "bothered" children at the playground. He was recognized in a court room by Detective Labouffe, eight, and her mother, Bobby, seven, shortly before he was denied liberty on bail.

Another suspect, who gave the name of Hexman Mayerfield, was released shortly after his arrest. He had entered the Murphy home and started a discussion of the kidnapping of Marjorie Parker in Los Angeles by William Edward Hickman, police claimed.

The final bit of contradictory evidence offered during the day was that of a street car conductor, Charles McQuade, who told of a man boarding his car Friday night with a girl who appeared to resemble pictures of the missing girl which have been widely broadcast.

Police Baffled
Out of this maze of puzzling declarations authorities naturally did not know which trail to follow. Consequently they still concentrated their activities in a search of empty houses and vacant structures in the hopes that if they found the girl they could make deductions which would lead them to the person they sought for the crime.

One fact alone had apparently been settled conclusively during the past 24 hours. Doris' father, who was divorced from her mother several years ago, is aboard a vessel on the Atlantic ocean. Police were informed. There had been a possibility that he had taken the girl.

Degenerate Blamed
The note received by Doris' mother in the mail today and which was described by McGovern as the work of a "mental degenerate" was signed "K. K." as was the one found Saturday. It read:

"Do not worry about your daughter; she is too sweet a child. I will return her as soon as police quit looking for her."
"P. S. Don't worry, I am no fiend."

"P. S. I only wanted her with me for a while because I liked her. She resembled my dead wife so much. Don't worry. I'll bring her home on the 5th of March—K. K."

Williams' wife died several weeks ago. Police had learned, but he was under close guard in the jail at 11:30 p. m. Sunday night when the envelope was postmarked.

"There was a slight attempt to disguise the handwriting in the second note that was abandoned after the first few words," McGovern claimed.

County Loses In Cut On Oil Assessment

MARTINEZ, Feb. 18.—A new schedule of assessments on oil in storage and farm products agreed upon by the San Joaquin Valley Assessors' association was announced here today by County Assessor George O. Meese. The county will lose considerable revenue due to a reduction of the price of low gravity crude oil, Meese declared. The new schedule was announced as follows:

Oil of 20.9 gravity of under 28 cents a barrel, against 37 cents a barrel last year.

Oil of 20.9 to 26.9 gravity, 40 cents a barrel against 38 cents a barrel last year.

Oil of over 26.9 gravity, 50 cents a barrel against 42 cents a barrel last year.

Meese declared that most of the oil in storage in this county is under 20.9 gravity.

Grain assessments were increased 25 percent and the assessment on live stock was increased slightly.

This Chart Shows

THE chart above, drawn by C. F. Lienesch, automotive engineer, illustrates an actual power test of a popular make car with high compression engine.

The short curve records power developed with white gasoline. Note that a maximum of 300 pounds per square inch is exerted on piston head at maximum performance, and that effective horse power is not over 108.

But see what happens when you fuel the same engine with Union-Ethyl. 500 pounds pressure on piston head at maximum performance. 120 effective horse power. A smoother, straighter, longer stroke that eliminates vibration.

And—for extra measure—two vital improvements that the chart doesn't show.

1. All knocks eliminated. No more "ping ping" in your motor when climbing steep hills—when moving slowly in high gear—or when you push the throttle to board in traffic.
2. And best of all—mileage is increased to the maximum that the designer of your car intended.

Why Wait?

Don't put up any longer with low compression results from your high compression car.

Fuel with Union-Ethyl—see that your spark is properly advanced—then obtain full benefits of New Advanced Spark Power. But remember—only Union-Ethyl guarantees you this added power and mileage.
